The house at 312 West Twenty-seventh Street is a three-story brick building, with a tin sign over one of the basement windows, on which is printed the announcement, "Dispen-sary for women and children; open from 10 to 12 A. M., and from 2 to 4 P. M." From this house the deaths of five children, under one year of age, were reported to the Health Board for the second half of the month of June-a period of but little over a fortnight. The certificates as to the cause of death, which was given as summer complaint, implied that but one occupy the house. The names of the dead children, however, were: Mary Reynolds, 10 months old, who died on June 13; Jonny Reynolds, 11 months old, who died on June 25; James Mitchell, 6 months old, who died on June 36: Mary Brady, 1 month old, who died on June 27: and Dalsy Latent, 21 days old, who died on 27: and Dalsy Latent, 21 days old, who died on July 1.

On account of the number of deaths under this diversity of names the health authorities have determined to make further inquiries.

A Sun reporter was resterday met at the front door by an old woman, who announced herself as Mrs. Georgians Manchester, the mistress of the house. She said that she resolved children to nurse from persons who, for various reasons, were unable to care for their offspring, but could afford to hire other people to do so. She desired only to receive the children of married persons, but had received others. She could not account for the deaths of the five children in succession, saying that they had had the best of care and medical treatment, Mrs. Brown, a female physician, living in West Thirty-fourth street, being their medical attendant. She refused to tell how many children she has now under her charge.

Carrol and Sweeney, Bent on Pun, larmed the Neighbors and Got Fined. A cavalry sabre and a muzzle-loading rifle were laid on the deak before Justice Kilbreth in the Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday. "There seems to be an epidemic of this sort of thing. Where did you get the sword?" asked Detective Cairns said that the police of the Twentieth street police station were informed late on Friday night that John Carrol, a blacksmith, was insane in the tenement at 215 West Eighteenth street. Detectives Cairns and Campbell went around to the house and found Carrol parading up and down the hall with a naked cavalry sabre in his hand. He was crazy maked cavalry sabre in his hand. He was crazy with liquor, and shouted that he would kill every one in the biace. He raised the sword, and bringing it quickly down, drove the point deeply into the floor. The policemen seized the opportunity to secure him. Cairns showed pieces of wood that had been backed from the casings by Carrol. Carrol explained that he had acted in fun, but was committed to Blackwell's Island for six months.

Policeman Dougherty of the Prince street station said that at 9 o'clock last evening he found James P. Sweeney of 71 Thompson street walking up and down Variok street with the rifle in his hands. He stopped passers by and demanded the countersign, and when a crowd collected he pointed the gun at the people. Dougherty knocked the rifle aside with his club and arrested Sweeney.

In court, Sweeney also said he was in fun, but was fined $10.

(New York World, July 13, 1880.) New Pates, N. T., July 12, 1880.—Along the line of the Wallkill Valley Railroad, and about ains miles back from Highland Landing, immediately opposite Poughkespsie, nestles the little town of New Pates, a quiet and beauti ful town of Uniter County. Ylowed from the railroad station, New Palts seems but a cluster of half a dozen houses, but mine host of the Elling House tells me that the town polls 600 votes, and can be counted on safely to give 200 majority for Gen. Hancock. The place boasts an give 200 majority for Gen. Hancock. The place boasts an extensive seminary, at the head of which for the past twelve years has been Dr. Henry M. Bouscher, a German, about 50 years old, who with his wife and four children, occupy the seminary building. The school is for pupils of both sexes, and receives boarding as well as day scholars, and nearly all the youth of this neighborhood are graduates from Mr. Bouscher's seminary. Just now it is holiday season, and the vacation has been made doubly euloyable for Dr. Bouscher by his winning a prize in the drawing of the Kentucky State Lettery of June 10. I visited the Doctor this morning to congratulate him on his good luck. "It was so entirely upexpected to me." he said. "the
